In regard to the Dry Goods trade the Philafelphila Ledger speaks as follows:
Trade shows a little more activity in dry goods, as well as in produce and breadstuffs.
Though the business in the former is by no means equal to what it has been for several years at a corresponding time, still it is fairly active. There are quite a number of buyers on the market for staple cotton goods, and prices are more firmly maintained. The woolen tariff having stimulated that department of trade, there is imparted a more cheerfultone to the whole dry goods business, while this is so, there is no speculation—no aking of large stocks for a inture market.
Prices for the time are firm, and while orders to the manufacturers continue light, hope is
